Notice.

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners,
Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.
BELIEVING as I do, that Providence,
at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above
description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent
to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description
being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE, Fairfax Court-House, Va.

Missouri and Illinois Bounty Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands;
every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss
the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown, and Washington, and the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.
Please to apply at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge street, Georgetown.
ROMULUS RIGGS,
july 31 dtf

In answer to a late question in this paper.

1. It is well known that on September 3, 1752, the style was changed in England, by a previous act of parliament. As the Julian year had then gained on the true solar year eleven days, that day was called the 14th.

2. Those of the Society of Friends who lived in 1751, and others who have been since allowed to learn, know, that there was no eleventh nor twelfth month at its close. The last day of it was 31 of tenth month.

3. On February 29, 1800, the style was again changed: the day was called Mar. 1, now making twelve days difference in what are called old and new styles.

4. The true year, according to Sir Isaac Newton, consists of 365d. 5h. 58m. 57s. 3" but the year of account consists of 365d. 6h. The true year, therefore, is short of the civil year by 11m. 3s. nearly. To rectify this error, which accumulates to a day in about 132 years, the following plan of altering the style was ordered by Pope Gregory XIII. although it still leaves an error of one day in 72 centuries.

5. Every centennial year, the first two figures of which are exactly divisible by 4, is a leap year, and all others are not. Thus 1800 was not—1900 will not be a leap year, but 2000 will.

6. It was the custom, previously to the year 1752, to add a double date to the year between December 31 and March 25: as March was anciently the first month, and in one case would be in one year, and in another, another. Thus what was called 11 mo. 13, 1739, 40, would be January 13, 1740, agreeably to the style of that year.

From these premises, we think the following effects inevitably ensue.

1. Every man now living, who was born previously to September 3, 1752, had the anniversary of his birth then changed 11 days, and on March 1, 1800, twelve days later. Hence a man who was born on 9 mo. 6, 1749, had the return of his birth day on November 17, until 1800: in that and subsequent years it was November 18.

2. The true anniversary of the birth of the illustrious Washington, is now on February 23, and not on the 22d, because he was born on February 11, 1732.

3. The true anniversary of American Independence is now on July 5.

4. Christmas and other feasts of the church, which are considered fixed, are in fact moveable. They moved 11 days in 1752, and another day in 1800. In 1900 they will move another, in 2100 another, and so on.

5. People who are now 20 years of age, or upwards, had their birth days changed one day later after February 28, 1800.

6. Those of the Society of Friends who wish to calculate their years correctly, must now add two months and twelve days to their mode of appellation, in all cases of birth previously to 1 mo. 1, 1752.

Thus 2 mo. 4, 1736, or April 4, being a birth day,

Add 2 mo. 12,

Makes 4 mo. 16, or April 16.

But between 10 mo. 31, 1751 and 9 mo. 3, 1752, add 12 days only.

Thus 6 mo. 30, 1752, or June 30.

Add 12,

Makes 7 mo. 12, or July 12.

To those who doubt the correctness of some of the above results, we would present the case of a child born at noon on March 3, 1796, and who was to come to the possession of an estate, if he should attain the age of eight years. He died on March 3, 1804, at noon. Can the guardian sustain an action in this instance? Eight years of account had not elapsed until March 4, 1804, at noon. A scientific jury would give a verdict against him.

INDIAN GENEALOGY.

At a treaty held between the United States and the Creek nation of Indians, in which there was a considerable difference of interest and opinion, the Indians not feeling disposed to come into the measures of general Jackson, the U. S. Commissioner, and he believing that threats would have some effect to bring the treaty to a speedy conclusion, rose from his seat somewhat irritated, and observed, that he was not afraid of blood; when a tall warlike chief arose, and, addressing Jackson, said: "I think you talked of blood, by which you mean that you are not afraid, neither am I: I was not born of a woman, neither was I dandled on the knees of a woman; but a black cloud was seen to rise in the west, the thunder rolled, the lightning descended and delivered a large pine tree, from the ruins thereof sprang forth TOLOOWASSEE."

ALEXANDRIA:

THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 7.

The Baltimore Patriot, issued on Tuesday last, at 2 p. m. says, we are happy to find but nine new cases of fever are reported within the last twenty-four hours.

Gen. Thompson Mason, of Virginia, has been appointed, by the President, collector of the port of Alexandria, D. C. vice Colonel Simms, deceased.

This appointment, we learn, has excited some surprise amongst the mercantile community of that place. [Wash. City Gaz.]

Vessels are continually loading at our docks, (says the Albany Argus,) with oats, corn, potatoes, pumpkins, onions and other garden vegetables, for New-York, New-Jersey, Philadelphia, &c. It would seem that these crops have been cut off on the whole line of coast from Connecticut to Carolina, and that the articles enumerated are in demand to supply the failure. Thousands of bushels of potatoes, onions, and corn in the ear have been shipped from this place. The prices now paid, are for onions, 75 cents per bushel, potatoes 30 to 37 cents, corn 25 cents the bushel for the ears, and oats 37 cents. At Washington city, potatoes are stated to be worth 1 doll. 50 cents to 2 dollars the bushel.

The editor of the Argus has been misinformed. Potatoes sell in Washington at about 1 dollar, and at the same price in Alexandria. There is nevertheless a good profit in their importation from the eastward, and they frequently form a principal part of the cargo of a vessel coming from thence. If the Albanians would command a little more commercial enterprise, by extending their exportations beyond their own state, they might find a good account in the shipment of some of their surplus produce to this district.

Much interest has been recently excited on the subject of matrimony, in the community of Rhode Island. It is not perhaps generally understood, that the laws recognize this as a civil institution altogether. Until the year 1733, none but civil officers were authorized to sanction marriage contracts; in that year, the authority was extended to ministers and elders of churches, as a matter of convenience merely. [Prov. Pat.]

The Mayor of the city of New Orleans, (says the Philadelphia Gazette,) has issued a proclamation, dated the 25th August, stating that the yellow fever exists in that city, principally among strangers. In order to mitigate its ravages, he has appointed a number of physicians and nurses to attend the sick in each ward, for which purpose the sum of one thousand dollars has been placed at his disposal by the City Council.

Silas Read, Esq. of Plainfield, in the state of New Hampshire, raised the present year, from one acre of ground, one hundred and three bushels and two quarts of Indian corn. The land was accurately surveyed, and the grain was measured by two persons chosen for the purpose.

The late governor of Cuba requested to be recalled. The new governor is a native of the island—and is the first native which has been appointed to that office.

DISPARITY OF JUSTICE FOR LOUISIANA.

A squatter (even a single man) who slipped into our country, without the knowledge or permission of the Spanish government, gets a mile square of land from congress; while an old Spanish subject, with a numerous family, cannot obtain from this same congress, even the confirmation of his old Spanish grant, be it ever so small.

[St. Louis Gazette.]

A poor pensioner from Beverly, just after he came from the U. S. Bank with his pension money yesterday, stopped near the bank to assist a person who fell from his horse, and while in the act of discharging this duty of humanity, his pocket was rifled of his pocket book and money by some of the light-fingered gentry, who have exhibited so much adroitness in this town and Cambridge within a few weeks. It is a case of peculiar distress to this old soldier, who was so poor as to borrow money to get some clothes decent enough to come to the bank, and has now lost his all.

In the search for the thief in this instance, a person was apprehended, who was recognized as a pick-pocket in the Meeting-house in Cambridge, and was bound over to the Middlesex court by S. D. Parker, esq. after a long and patient examination.

[Boston paper.]

EARTHQUAKE IN VENEZUELA.

During the time the United States schooner Nonsuch lay at Angostura, a severe earthquake was felt at that place, and throughout the province of Venezuela, and the Island of Trinidad. It lasted one minute, a period of duration which is very unusual; the shocks being tremendously heavy, but owing to the perpendicular motion of the earth, instead of the undulatory motion, usual at such times, but little injury was sustained, only one house being thrown down, and no lives, we understand, were lost. [Norfolk Beacon.]

The following is from the 'Olive,' printed at Mansfield, Ohio. This strange animal will convince those who have made so much fuss about the Sea Serpent, that the fertile soil of Ohio can produce as curious animals as their monstrous Serpent.

[Philadelphia Freeman's Journal.]

REMARKABLE.

"A black snake was killed on Saturday the 28th ult. in Plymouth township, in this county, which was five feet and an half long, and had two heads, one on each end, one of which was somewhat less than the other, but both equally natural. It was killed in an oatfield, and was seen by a number of people."

From the National Advocate.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

There is no subject or special duty, which is of so much vital interest, and so little understood, as the management of children. I am confirmed in the opinion, from attentive observation, that this branch of domestic economy is very much neglected, and that children were better governed, some twenty-five years ago, than they are at present. Parents, as well as society at large; the interest of country, and the welfare of mankind, depend, in a great measure, on early impressions—on a proper impulse and direction, given to children's mind; and this cannot be neglected without violating those great obligations which morality imposes. I am excessively fond of children when they are not rude or noisy, and can possibly have no higher gratification than in mixing in their innocent amusements and participating in their joyful gambols—I take great delight in conversing with a sensible, modest boy, and can nurse a rosy cheek'd infant for hours, if the urchin does not cry. With such feelings, I accepted an invitation, from a friend, to dinner, who had a large family of young children, and who seasoned his invitation by assurances that I should meet some gentlemen of intelligence, as well as being gratified with the sight of a promising family. These were sufficient inducements; and at the appointed hour I was there, for nothing is more rude than to keep a family waiting dinner beyond the hour of invitation. I met with a friendly welcome; and the young ones, consisting of three boys and a girl, were, severally, ordered up to shake hands with me, and be exhibited. They each made some resistance, shuffled off a little, and came very reluctantly. I did not augur well from this specimen of breeding: a child should be instructed to approach a stranger with respectful confidence, divested, alike, of assurance or timidity. I would not judge hastily, and dinner was shortly announced. The children were almost the first seated, and there was some indecent scuffling for chairs, which required the interference of the father. I did not deem it prudent to create a riot. Order being restored, I began to eat my soup, but with little comfort: the young ones were again noisy and clamorous: one did not like mutton—the other vociferously demanded the ship of a turkey—a third called for beer, with an air of authority—and papa whispered the fourth to ask me to drink a glass of wine with him, an honor which I would have declined, but was fearful of hurting the feelings of the father, who was thus ruining his child, by teaching him maxims of high life, and customs of mature age, while yet an infant. We got through the dinner after some wrangling: a few tears, expostulations from the father, and opposition from the mother. The desert was introduced: and the young ones made a dash at the finest of the fruit—helped themselves plentifully—and, while two were fighting for a peach, they knocked over a butter boat with sauce for the pudding, which they safely lodged partly in mama's lap, and partly on my small black clothes. I was very near losing my temper on the occasion; I was conversing, with a gentleman who sat opposite to me, on the subject of manufactures, and the means of decreasing pauperism and giving employment to our poor; but this deeply interesting topic was interrupted by the nurse entering, with an infant in her arms, and a boy of two years old, leading by the hand. A new scene of uproar commenced: the children seized the baby—the baby squalled for fruit—the young one grasped at every thing in his way—a perfect riot ensued—and it was with great difficulty that the room was cleared, after bribing each of them with something eatable. I took my departure with pleasure, happy in terminating this unpleasant interview.

Times are strangely altered, or rather wholesome doctrines have become unfashionable. When I was a boy, my breakfast, with seven others, consisted of milk and water, or very weak coffee, which was placed in a large earthen pan, and each of us had a tin cup, and two good slices of bread and butter: all of our meals were served up, in this manner, under the superintendence of one of the family, and we were dispatched to school at the proper hour; we had a reasonable proportion of delicacies reserved for us, and at night we joined the family party, who were all pleased to see us, and that was the season for mirth and judicious hilarity: our education was not neglected—our appetites were not pampered—our minds were not ruined by extravagance—and our principles were not vitiated by bad examples. Nothing can have a better effect than adopting a system with children and never departing from it, if the principles are sound. A very sacred and solemn duty is imposed upon parents, not only to feed and clothe their children, (for that seems to be the boundary attention with many persons) but to preserve their mind and morals pure—to inculcate, by precept and example, lessons of prudence, economy and industry. This can only be effected in one way: by decision and judicious severity. Unless a child fears his parent, he will never obey or respect him. This severity does not consist in beating a child—but keeping him at a respectful distance; admitting him only at stated periods into his presence, and at those periods conversing rationally and affectionately with him; crushing in the bad every attempt at wit, or what is called, smart sayings, the precursors only of insolence, rudeness, and ill manners; but, on the contrary, imprinting upon their waxen minds, lessons of mildness, temperance, and industry.

Some will say, that by this cold and repulsive course, you teach children to hate you; but it should be remembered, that familiarity destroys respect; and where there is no respect, there is no fear—where there is no fear, there is no obedience. A child may fear his parent; but in time he will discover the good qualities of his father, account for his severity and love him; and that very severity will induce a child to do nothing that may offend him. Let them live hardy when young: partake of rough, but wholesome fare: abstain from luxuries: dress plainly: give them little or no money: teach them to earn it: give them a trade when they are able to work, or a suitable profession: see that their time is employed and compel them, while under your care, to obey your commands, and they will turn out good citizens. It is a fact, which is undeniable, that seven-eighths of the bad characters, who disfigure the world—who are useless to themselves—of no credit or service to their families, have been thus reduced to extremities from the culpable neglect and unpardonable indifference of parents.

HOWARD.

CLARE ASSIZES.

The execution of the four unfortunate wretches who were hanged, pursuant to sentence, at the Ennis Assizes, on Wednesday and Thursday week, is calculated to awaken those horrid feelings which accounts of savage ferocity, perpetrated centuries since, would fail to inspire. We would almost wish to avoid the contemplation of those scenes that led to the fatal consummation of this miserable drama; but our duty wills it otherwise; and sickening at the retrospect, we must still look on it, till vision, disgusted, refuses to perform its wonted office. The crime for which the first two suffered was murder—murder in such shape as renders description hideous; the victim, an unfortunate female, who was supposed to have given information relative to illicit distilleries in the district of Moyree. At the close of the evening, a few months since, she passed, as was frequently her custom, the house of John and James Sullivan, wherein their companion, John Burns, was then employed in making whiskey. At the woman passed, Sullivan's son called out in Irish, 'There goes Biddy the informer.' The men paused, gazed at each other, and at that instant revenge and murder expelled reason and humanity from their souls; the ill-starred Biddy pursued her course, and they resumed their illicit work until they found it completed, without the hindrance which Biddy's appearance had led them to expect; joy at their success induced them to drink freely of the newly-finished spirits, but this only added to their thirst for vengeance, and nought but the blood of their miserable victim could quench its fire. Armed with various weapons, they left their dwelling, and in one short hour Biddy the informer was no more! On entering her hut, which could not resist them, the foremost struck her on the head with a stone, which fractured her skull, and laid her at his feet; a yell of savage joy announced the triumph, and the prostrate, almost inanimate being was raised from the earth, to undergo more cruelties. She was placed against the wall, and her breasts were severed from her body; trembling with agony, she showed signs of life, till one, with more pity than the rest, by repeated incisions with a knife and pitchfork, made in her side and stomach, completed the work of carnage. Finding her no longer capable of administering to their horrid pleasures, they precipitated the mis-shapen carcass into an adjacent river, and coolly informed a man who lived near to it, that there was a woman drowning. He, perhaps, aware of their character, or at least suspecting something, told them he would not open the door—that if the woman was drowned, his assistance could be of no use. They could gain no admittance, and they retired—their hands and persons begrimed with gore. When they had gone the man came out, and found what to him appeared to have once been a human body, but so mutilated as scarce to retain the semblance. They were arrested, convicted, and received the punishment they merited.

Forty-eight hours from the time sentence was passed, were allotted to them. A clergyman of the Roman Catholic Faith attended, and, we trust, his constant admonitions were not lost. We saw them launched into eternity before thousands of spectators, from whom no groan of dissatisfaction proceeded, and the awful solemnity of which cannot fail to teach that country a deep, long lesson. But we are fated to proceed in this painful task: the following sun beheld two more pay the debt of nature for a crime, equal if not superior in magnitude, to what we have related. Singular, melancholy, and dreadful coincidence—one day a man dies for the murder of a woman—the next a woman dies for the murder of a man, and that man her husband!—her assistants, her panders in sin and guilt are—her father and her brother!—Oh, spirit of pity! hast thou fled the earth, or is our nature altered—are there no bonds strong enough to chain down this demonic principle—has feminine tenderness been changed into bloody vengeance—have those mild and heavenly beauties which raised her above the coarse qualities of manhood, been expelled the bosom of a woman, and left us nought to cheer us in the desertion of those beauteous attributes? The execution of this terrific deed was more speedy than that above. A family feud long existed between the unhappy husband and his wife's family, which they determined on concluding, by murdering the object of their sanguinary rage. The husband had been from home, and had drunk somewhat too freely.—On his return, his wife met him, and Judas like, gave him the fond salutation of a kiss, drew him into the house, and coiled her arms round him, seated him in her lap, whilst her brother beat out his brains. The father, we have heard, was a silent, though reluctant spectator. On the trial every circumstance was fully proved against the brother and sister. We need scarcely say they suffered for the deed.

SAVANNAH STEAM PACKET.

This fine vessel sailed from Tranmere, on the Cheshire side of the Mersey, on Friday last—the whole strength of her steam was applied, (between seventy and eighty horse power) but she was completely beat round the Rock Perch, by the Waterloo steam-packet, between Liverpool and Belfast, the latter vessel has two engines of thirty horse power each, and is completely rigged with sails, and is calculated to carry nearly 150 tons. We had an opportunity last week of viewing the Savannah, and we may safely take upon ourselves to say, that a more handsome specimen of naval architecture never entered a British port. She is calculated to carry about 340 tons, of which nearly 200 tons are occupied by her machinery. The paddle wheels on each side are about 14 feet in diameter—each wheel has eight paddles of wood, nearly three inches thick, and four feet in breadth, connected by strong double chains, working in the midway between stem and stern. The state cabin, which is entirely wainscoted with mahogany tastefully inlaid, is 24 feet long, and perhaps 12 in width—on the sides are the cots, twenty in number, and admirably calculated for comfort and accommodation.—The floor is painted to imitate a tessellated pavement—looking glasses are let into the mast which divides the cabin, and this arrangement gives a pleasing effect to the tout ensemble.—The approach to the cabin, from the deck, is by a convenient staircase. There are a great number of other accommodations for passengers, and the whole is highly creditable to American mechanism and ingenuity. We had some conversation with the Captain (Rogers) who is not remarkable for being communicative—and from the purport of his answers, we are inclined to believe, that the rumor of the vessel being a present to the Emperor Alexander is totally groundless—but we are nevertheless of opinion that the Czar may purchase it—if he likes it. The fact is, the Savannah is sent to Europe merely as a specimen of Trans-Atlantic ship architecture, and will become the property of the "highest bidder." A silent civility pervades the whole crew, from the Captain to the black cook, for which the whole may have private reasons, which it is no business of ours to inquire into.

Venice, July 11.
Lately a new opera was got up here
with the most extraordinary and unbounded applause. It is composed by a German, Jacob Mejerbeer of Berlin.
For some days it has been the topic of all Venice. He led the orchestra himself, and was compelled six times by the applause of the public to appear on the stage. From every box, even from those that were generally occupied by the most decided enemies of the Ger-kisses, and encomiums; the house was

as it were a mass of raptured spectators.
All exclaiming: "Here is more than Port of Philadelphia, October 4.

Arrived, yesterday, the brig Adeline, capt.
Southern, of and from Georgetown, Col. bound to Newburyport, put into this port in distress.

On Monday the 20th, at 1 o'clock A. M. encountered a most tremendous gale from N. E.
which continued 70 hours, during which the continually shipped heavy seas, lost her small boat, her best heavy anchor, bowsprit, foremast, and all the rigging, sails and spars
thereof attached, broke her windlass bits,
lost one man overboard, broke the captain's leg, washed overboard Mr. Ladd, the mate, but he fortunately regained the vessel after receiving a very severe sprain in his right hand, and a contusion on the left leg and foot. Mr. Morrill, formerly mate of the ship Wilhelmina, of Alexandria, and a passenger,
had his ankle dislocated, his leg severely bruised, and a dangerous cut in the back.
John W. Gillman, of N. Hampshire, had a blood vessel broken, his back severely bruised, and breast stove in, in a most shocking manner; in fact, only Mr. Peabody, of Georgetown, a foremast hand, and the cook,
were all out of sight, that escaped unhurt;
the cook's time was entirely engrossed in attending to the wants of the crippled, and of course only two were enabled to keep the deck. On Thursday, the 23d, the gale abated, succeeded in erecting a jury foremast, and bore away for Philadelphia, being the nearest port. On Tuesday, landed the Capt. at Lewistown, under the care of Dr. White, the other wounded are recovering slowly.

Drifted or was Stolen.

FROM my landing on the Potomac, about one mile from Maryland Point, on Tuesday night, the 28th September, a small northern built YANKEE BOAT, quite new, black gunwales, the seats, and her inside, as low as the seats, of a leaden color, and I think,
her gunwales on the outside of a cream color
below them, for a short distance, of a leaden color; her bottom, both within and without, turpentine or varnish. I purchased her about the 22d or 23d of July of Mr. E. Corning, Alexandria. I will give five dollars for the boat alone, if brought home unharmed;—and if stolen I will give ten dollars for the boat
and conviction of the thief.

the citizens of Alexandria, that his

the general improvement of his pupils, are sufficient. As the school will be limited to twenty, and a number having already applied, those who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity would do well to make immediate application, and none need expect

Correct Information.
THE stock advertised for sale by the Mechanics' Bank as standing in our name, is not our property. Our stock note thereon has been continued, under heavy and disproportional circumstances, ever since March 1818, for the use of the real owner, a respectable mechanic of this place, because he could not obtain leave, upon a transfer, to substitute his stock note for ours. We have no interest in said stock beyond the sum that will retire the said stock note, and we do not think it proper to advance more money than we have done for curtains.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,
Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling.

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given; thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case; and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeyman's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or dissatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.
S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call. He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trousers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly; had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bear-skin overcoat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse clothing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses. I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

Editors: (Rev. Wm. Hawley, Washington, Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria, Rev. Oliver Norriss, Alexandria, Rev. Rev. Keith, Georgetown.)
Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

If any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprise and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprise of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to lose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.
A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid. Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July.
